Have you ever worked an accident scene at night and lost your trauma shears after you put them down for only a second? Rip Shears Firefly glows in the dark to prevent first responders from losing yet another pair of trauma shears. Additionally, it can act as a safety feature indicating to other people where you are when working a scene at night.

The Trauma Shears are one of those things that don't cost very much but become invaluable when you really need them. The CTOMS™ Trauma Shears come in subdued black blades with your choice of handle color.
